Tips & Tricks for your PC

Dealing with Spam

Spam, or junk email, is becoming a problem for many people. Whilst we do filter out email from known spammer IP addresses, it is a growing problem for everyone, so our helpdesk want to share some tips on dealing with spam:

- Don't ever reply to spam. This just confirms your email address is a good one, and spammers will hit you again, or sell your address. If they include a link to 'unsubscribe' this is often just a ploy to get you to reply.
- Use a free email address such as hotmail or yahoo for all your email newsletters, competitions, and any forms you fill out online. Keep your Quicksilver email address for friends, family and colleagues only.
- If you do receive spam, use the free reporting service at www.spamcop.net. You need to sign up with them (free), and then find out how to make your mail program show you the full headers to paste or forward on to spamcop. They will track the email, and send a complaint to the correct network. They also keep a list of known spammers on a points system, which can then be used by ISP's to block known spammers
- Try spam filtering software such as Mailwasher (<http://mailwasher.net>). Some email programs are now building spam filtering in such as Pegasus Mail (www.pmail.com) and Eudora 6 (www.eudora.com/betas).

Quicksilver Webmail - email away from home

Did you know that we have webmail on our website, so that you can login and check your email when you are away from home.

Webmail is also great for viewing large attachments which are slow to download, such as photos. It's often easier to view them in webmail than to download them into Outlook Express.

To access webmail, either visit the members section of our website, or go directly to <http://webmail.quicksilver.net.nz>

Webmail tip: remember to "Purge" the trash when you're finished, by going to Folders > Trash > Select all emails > Click the Purge button.

Remove nasty spyware from your PC

While you are surfing around the internet, and downloading programs, it's easy to pick up nasty Spyware programs. Spyware is software that is often installed without your knowledge, and can often be malicious, causing adult popups to appear in your browser, or ads to appear randomly.

We recommend running Spybot regularly to get rid of any nasties.

Spybot is available for free download from <http://security.kolla.de>

Please note that software mentioned here is not supported by our helpdesk. Usually you can find help and support on the download website for the program.
